FREDERICK PALMER'S

NOVEL

The Vagabond

MR. PALMER'S story is the first novel of a man already distinguished as a correspondent and known to many readers by a series of strong short stories. THE VAGABOND is a novel into which the Civil War enters largely, though both the character of its plot and its chief strength are determined not so much by this as by the individuality of its hero—a memorable character whose “search for a mountain, a mine, and a girl” is strenuous and concentrated enough to belie his ironical nickname. The peculiar vividness of his pictures of the war and of the men of the Volunteer Army are characteristic of Mr. Palmer, whose fighting has about it neither nonsense nor exaggeration.

CRUISING AMONG THE CARIBBEES

By CHARLES A. STODDARD

A new edition greatly enlarged and brought to date. With 18 illustrations, of which 6 are new. 12mo, $1.50

Contains much new material, particularly about Martinique, Porto Rico and Jamaica, bringing the work fully up to the present time. The eruptions of Pelee and Soufrière, the emancipation of Cuba, the annexation of Porto Rico, and numerous other physical, political and national changes are adequately treated, the author having spent parts of the winters of 1902 and 1903 revisiting the islands described in this volume.

The Heart of Hyacinth

By ONOTO WATANNA

Author of "A Japanese Nightingale," etc.

An exquisite love story of Japan, told with the delicacy of touch, the tender sentiment, and the dainty comedy that charmed so many in "A Japanese Nightingale." The story is the romance of an American girl born in Japan, reared by a Japanese woman, whose half-English son is her companion, and, finally, her lover. The book is uniform with "A Japanese Nightingale," beautifully bound in lavender cloth, with gold and colored decorations; Japanese artists have illustrated it with full-page pictures in color and marginal drawings in tint on every page.

Deckel edges and gilt top. In a box, $2.00 net (Postage extra)

TWO PRISONERS

(Imprint of R. H. RUSSELL)

By THOMAS NELSON PAGE

Author of "Marse Chan," "Red Rock," etc.

Thomas Nelson Page has achieved an enviable rank in American literature, and "Two Prisoners" is written in that early manner of simple and touching eloquence which made him famous. The story concerns a little girl imprisoned by lameness in her room, and a mocking bird whom she longed to set free. Through the unconscious agency of this bird the little heroine came into a great happiness.

MONNA VANNA

A Play in Three Acts

By MAURICE MAETERLINCK

Translated by
ALEXIS IRENE DU PONT COLEMAN

This is one of the most beautiful dramas that has yet come from the pen of "the Belgian Shakespeare." The scenes are laid at Pisa, at the end of the fifteenth century, and centre around heroic Vanna, the beautiful wife of the city's ruler. Love, passion, heroism are sublimely depicted in passages in which Maeterlinck's genius is at its height.

*Decorated bevelled boards, untrimmed edges, gilt top, silk headband, $1.20 net
(Postage extra)*

THE FAIRIES' CIRCUS

By NEVILLE CAIN, Author of "The Fairies' Menagerie"

The wonderful feats of the fairies are described in pictures in various tints, and in bright verses such as the children enjoy. Fifteen full-page illustrations and many small ones, by the author, show the marvellous things the fairies can do.

THE MILLS OF MAN

By

PHILIP PAYNE

"THE MILLS OF MAN" is a story of politics as played in Chicago, U. S. A., in the year of our Lord 1903. It is the story of a political tragedy as dramatic as the fate of the most romantic hero. In "The Mills of Man," however, there are real men and women; people of whom you have read in the headlines of the morning papers. They are alive, modern, and typically American. It is a story of simple loves and profound hates; of faithful friends and unscrupulous enemies.

First of all there is Corlis, the scheming egotist, who exploits both his friends and his enemies for his own good, and who is himself a willing tool. He it is who attempts to build a political mill that shall grind more swiftly than the mills of God, and who ultimately goes as grist to his own mill. The story of the shattering of Mrs. Corlis' pride in her husband is a pitiful tragedy that shows the author's insight into the heart of things.

Boss McBride the imperturbable, Senator Dawes the trimmer, J. J. J. the trading millionaire, Hildegard the practical idealist, and Ruggles the dreaming journalist, are all men and women of to-day. "The Mills of Man" is a novel of character, of striking incident, of inevitable plot, and of vivid realism. It embodies in dramatic form the restive spirit of Chicago and the great West.

You are going to have calls for it and it is going to be a long and steady seller. Orders should be sent to your jobber or to the publishers.

Issued September 10th

"The Mills of Man" is set in Caslon type, the cover design is simple and strong and entirely in gold, the top is of gold, and the whole book suggests a virile story. The book has 476 pages and the price is $1.50.

W. B. CONKEY COMPANY

... ARE THE LARGEST MANUFACTURERS OF BOOKS IN THE WORLD ...

OUR lines embracing everything from penny toy books to exquisite morocco presentation editions. We have the most formidable factory equipment in the business, covering every known labor-saving appliance, supplemented by many inventions of tested utility owned and used by ourselves exclusively. These advantages explain how the best literature is made accessible to everybody; how we are able to produce a finished book (beautifully printed and attractively bound, like our Abbey Series) to sell for the surprisingly low price of ten cents.

The CONKEY establishment bears a relation towards the publishing business similar to that occupied by Carnegie in the steel industry. Mr. Carnegie surrounded himself with every element that affected production and then did everything that anyone else could do; only he did it somewhat better, and somewhat cheaper, and could be depended upon always for prompt delivery. And this is the position and condition of the W. B. Conkey Company to-day.

Cheap books is an old story. Earlier attempts did not appeal to the public for the reason that the books looked cheap, felt cheap, and were cheap. The volumes in the ABBEEY SERIES are intended to provide a book sufficiently low in price to come within the reach of people of the most modest means, and sufficiently excellent in manufacture to be acceptable as a foundation for a meritorious home library.

ABBEEY SERIES. Nearly 400 Volumes

THE BEST COLLECTION OF POPULAR PRICED 12mos ON THE MARKET

Clearly printed and handsomely and substantially bound in cloth, embossed with an artistic design in two colors of inks on front and back covers, with side titles and lettering in gilt on back.

PRICE 10 CENTS PER VOLUME. Special quantity rates to the trade on request.

In the ABBEEY SERIES we offer you nearly 400 volumes covering the best productions of the greatest authors—American, English, and Continental. These are books that appeal to the whole reading public, are every-day sellers, and are standard books always in demand, and just as staple in the book business as is granulated sugar in the grocery trade.

The merited reputation of the ABBEEY books for excellence of manufacture, and for being quick sellers has been very generally recognized, and the dealer who carries them in stock is certain to attract custom and make money. Remember the price is but ten cents per copy; that every title is in stock; and that there is no equivalent series in the market—none that can begin to compare with the ABBEEY SERIES for intrinsic literary merit, for beauty of external form, and for moderate price.

Go over our Catalogue for 1903-4 (recently mailed to you) and make up your orders and send them to us, and the books will be shipped at once. When they reach you, if they are not perfectly satisfactory in every particular or unsatisfactory for any reason whatever, send them back to us at our expense.

"CASTLE CRANEYCROW"

12mo. Cloth. $1.50

DODD, MEAD & COMPANY, New York

A Mummer's Wife

A New Edition of GEORGE MOORE'S Masterpiece

A Mummer's Wife

It is the most perfect piece of realism, in the French sense, that has yet been written in the English language.—N. Y. Times.

A Mummer's Wife

The story of a Mummer's Wife is not always a cheerful story, but it is a particularly strong one, and shows the existence that strolling players live up to life.—Boston Times.

A Mummer's Wife

George Moore is at his best in the Mummer's Wife. That is, it is his most successful presentment of a story in his favorite field.—Baltimore Sun.

A Mummer's Wife

As a biography of an hysterical woman vacillating between a craving for the changing sensations of a tawdry Bohemia and a longing for the comfort and complacency of the middle-class existence of her earlier life, nothing could be more complete or more instinct with truthfulness.—N. Y. Public Opinion.

A Mummer's Wife

The present novel is liberal as to length, but dull at no point, and is frank as well as vivid in its depictions of human nature.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

A Mummer's Wife

The Mummer's Wife still holds its high place in literature by reason of its style, and because each page literally pulsates with life.—St. Louis Republic.

A Mummer's Wife

Compared to the insipid twaddle of most of the modern novels, it stands as an immense work, not pleasant, but wonderfully true, an unquestionable monument of truth.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

NOTES IN SEASON.

THE BOBBS-MERRILL Co. will bring out "The Fortunes of Fifi" on September 12. In this Molly Elliot Seawell has written a delightful story of a little actress in the poorer quarter of Paris, who has all the best attributes of never-to-be-forgotten "Trilby."

C. M. CLARK PUBLISHING Co. will publish in October "Marjie of the Lower Ranch," a stirring romance of western ranch life, by Frances Parker; and "Love Stories from Real Life," Mildred Champagne's volume of dramatic tales, to which attention has previously been directed.

D. APPLETON & Co. have ready to-day "The Career Triumphant," a novel of present day social life in Virginia, by Henry B. Boone; the Roslyn edition of the "Poetical Writings of William Cullen Bryant," with chronologies and a bibliography by Henry C. Sturges, and a memoir by the late Richard Henry Stoddard; and "Central Europe," a new volume in Appletons' World Series, by Joseph Partsch.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have in preparation new novels by Winston Churchill, F. Marion Crawford, Charles Major, Edith Elmer Wood, Cutcliffe Hyne, Quiller-Couch, Beulah M. Dix, Caroline Brown, Richard L. Makin and many others. Among their most successful books recently issued are James Lane Allen's "Mettle of the Pasture;" Jack London's "Call of the Wild;" "People of the Whirlpool," by "A Commuter's Wife;" and Mrs. Ely's "A Woman's Hardy Garden."

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have just brought out John Fox's new novel, "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," which won many readers during its serial issue in Scribner's. It is set in the mountain regions of Kentucky in Civil War times, and both setting and period give ample scope for the romance and dramatic force that mark Mr. Fox's writings. "The Vagabond" is the first novel of Frederick Palmer, well known as a war correspondent and short story writer; and in "A Doctor of Philosophy" Dr. Cyrus Townsend Brady has written a dramatic story, centering in the "race problem" to-day.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY will publish September 25 "A Sequence in Hearts," by Mary Moss, a love story of to-day, with clever character sketching, of which a critic and novelist who read the advance sheets has said that "by its cleverness, its pungent wit and its able character drawing it is distinguished from all other books of fiction of the twelve months past." The publishers also report a second large edition of "Pigs in Clover;" a fourth edition of Barbour's "At the Time Appointed," a tenth edition of "That Mainwaring Affair," and the growing popularity of George Moore's "The Untilled Field."

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. have just ready a volume of striking short stories by the late Frank Norris, called "A Deal in Wheat," said to represent Norris's best and most mature work; "A Child's Letters to Her Husband," by Helen Watterson Moody, being the letters of a little girl to an imaginary husband, touched with the humor and feeling that marked Mrs. Moody's papers on "The Unquiet Sex;" "In Old Alabama," studies of life in the South, by Anne Hobson, sister of Captain Hobson, of Merrimac fame; "Toilers of the Home," an account of a year's work in domestic service by a college graduate, written from personal experience by Lillian Pettingill; and a new series of "Little Masterpieces of Science," edited by George Iles.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk , and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Brady, Cyrus Townsend. A doctor of philosophy. N. Y., Scribner, 1903. [Ag.] c. 4+302 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

On the eve of her marriage with a representative of Philadelphia's bluest blood, Alicia Chalden is approached by an enemy of her father, and told a dreadful secret regarding her birth. Her father, Philip Chalden, a millionaire, and one of Philadelphia's political "bosses," had introduced her to society as his legitimate daughter, and she had been received most cordially by that part of it that lived above Market Street. Alicia's story, which has a most tragical ending, brings up the race question of black and white in a new shape.

But it was found impossible to make a plain statement without adopting a point of view for the definition of the problem and the theories in question. And in the search for a satisfactory point of view I have been led to a more or less independent reconstruction of the situation as a whole."—Preface.

Fox, J: jr. The little shepherd of Kingdom Come; il. by F. C. Yohn. N. Y., Scribner, 1903. [S.] c. 8+404 p. D. cl., *$1.50.

Mr. Fox has pictured sympathetically boy life among the Kentucky mountaineers; life at a blue-grass college in the simple days before the war; class feeling between the mountaineer and the "furriner," which persists to the present day; the way in which Kentucky was rent asunder by the Civil War; and the romantic glory of Morgan's men. The whole book is bound together by a beautiful love story.

"The letters selected are all characteristic of Leo. Taken together they express his sentiments on the chief questions of a time which, owing to his great influence in civil as well as in ecclesiastical matters, is really an epoch in the history of men. His influence on scientific studies alone is sufficient proof of this. . . . A perusal of the letters will satisfy the reader that in other spheres, as well as in that of science, in education, sociology, and statesmanship, the late Pontiff, by adapting himself to his age and studying carefully its needs and possibilities, has so influenced its thought and tendencies, as to have opened a new era in its history."—Preface.

Fort Dearborn guarded the trading-post where now stands Chicago. Life among the officers' wives and soldiers is vividly described. In 1810 the Indians became very dangerous because assured of British countenance. The fort was in charge of an incompetent officer who sacrificed his men after almost driving them to mutiny. A most exciting description is given of the horrors of Indian warfare. The author of "Lavender and old lace" again has charming womanly women in her story.

The legend of the Holy Grail is the basis of this the last and loftiest work of Richard Wagner's genius. The present English version of it (the first worthy English translation) is something more than a translation—it is a poetical paraphrase made by an author and scholar who has had exceptional opportunities for studying the opera on the Bayreuth stage.

Winter, Louise. Hearts aflame; il. by Archie Gunn. N. Y., Smart Set Pub. Co., 1903. c. '01, '03. 6-230 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The story depicts the efforts of a beautiful society leader to re-establish in the social world a woman friend who has been sensationally divorced and remarried.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

SEPTEMBER 5, 1903.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

EARLY AUCTION SALES.

IN Germany the opposition to auction sales for a long time was very bitter, and many complaints were heard of the frauds practiced at public sales. A pamphlet published early in the seventeenth century—a new edition was printed, sine loco, in 1697—bears the motto: "Ye shall not steal, neither deal falsely, neither lie one to another.—Leviticus, xix:11," and claims to "demonstrate and prove that the public book auctions bring reproach upon the booktrade, and work grievous injury to scholars." The exposé of the trickery and fraud which the writer of the pamphlet claims to have discovered in connection with book auction sales, ends with the following quotation from Thessalonians iv:6: "That no man go beyond and defraud his brother in any matter: because that the Lord is the avenger of all such, as we also have forewarned you and testified."

Notwithstanding the very strong opposition to auction sales from a large number of the booktrade in England, they found favor from the start with the bookbuyers and impetuous scholars. From 1676 to 1682 no less than thirty sales were held, and these included among others, the important collections of Lord Warwick, Sir Kenelm Digby, Dr. Thomas Watson and John Dunton, the eccentric bookseller, who, in 1685-1686, visited the Massachusetts Bay Colony to dispose of a stock of books. In time the booksellers also encouraged auction sales, and diverted them to their own uses, notably to unload their heavy stock, or to effect what to-day in England is termed "a rig."

With the dispersion of books from private libraries through auction sales came the opportunity for the dealers in old books in London, who first settled themselves in and about the neighborhood of little Britain, Moorfields and in St. Paul's churchyard, gradually working their way over to Fleet Street and the Strand. A sturdy race of booksellers grew out of those who first established themselves in the old book trade, among whom may be mentioned Robert Scott, Bateman, Henry Ballard or Bullard, William Newton, Wilcox, Benjamin Franklin's friend; Lackington, Allen & Co., who, in 1801, claimed to be the "Cheapest booksellers in the World;" Thomas Tegg, Charles Tilt, James Toovey, Charles Davis, Joseph Smith and James Westell. The giants of the nineteenth century and of the present time are too well known and hence need not be referred to here. In England, however, as well as elsewhere, the beginnings of the dealer in old books were humble enough, the day of small things continuing well into the nineteenth century.

In the United States, as may be imagined, there always has been a trade in old books. So early as 1693, Duncan Campbell, then at the Dock-head over against the Conduit, in Boston, who, according to Dunton, was "very industrious and dressed à la mode," offered for sale the library of "the late Reverend and Learned Mr. Samuel Lee." The catalogue of this collection, which, according to the Rev. Thomas Prince, was printed for Campbell by Bartholomew Green, is, as far as is known, the earliest printed catalogue of a library to be sold over the counter of a bookseller in America. Nor does it seem that auction sales met with any opposition in the new world. The earliest auction sale in the colonies of which we have any record is that of the library of the Rev. Ebenezer Pemberton, which was offered for sale by Samuel Gerrish at the Crown Coffee House, in Boston, July 2, 1717. Advertisements of auction sales or vendues of books are found quite frequently in New England journals in the early part of the eighteenth century.

The earliest trace we have found of a book auction sale in New York, was one held by David Dunham, on February 25, 1812, at 144 Pearl Street. The sale was announced to begin at four o'clock P.M. precisely, and the two conditions of the sale were simply these: "(1) If any difference arise concerning any Book sold, it shall be immediately exposed to sale again; (2) The Money to be paid at the Delivery of the Books." Undoubtedly auction sales were held in New York earlier than this, but history is silent on the subject. Besides David Dunham there were in the book auction business in New York William McLaughlin, who, in 1823, was associated with McLaughlin & Blakely at 41 Maiden Lane, and later with Stephen R. Wiggins, in the firm of McLaughlin, Wiggins & Co., at 68 William Street, at which stand, after the dissolution of the partnership, Wiggins continued alone until 1830. Passing over the dozen or more lesser-known men who sold books by auction, we reach the names of the two firms that are still remembered or in existence, namely, George A. Leavitt & Co. and Bangs, Merwin & Co. The firm of Leavitt, so long known in connection with the Trade Sales, was established by James E. Cooley, (who afterwards became Leavitt's father-in-law,) in 1833, at the "Panorama Sales Rooms," at 151 Broadway. With Cooley were associated at different times Lemuel Bangs and John Keese, while Leavitt had Robert M. Strebeigh and his brother, W. B. Leavitt, as associates in the auction business. The business of Bangs & Co., now the Anderson Auction Company, was established by Lemuel Bangs in 1829, at 85 Chatham Street.

In Philadelphia book auction sales were held as early as 1737, Benjamin Franklin being among the pioneer auctioneers. Robert Bell, the well-known Philadelphia bookseller and publisher, was also a noted auctioneer during the Revolution. Bell, who subscribed himself the "humble provedore to the sentimentalists," printed many curious articles in the newspapers on the great benefit of auction sales. The notes in his sale catalogues are very amusing as a rule, and always highly patriotic. He died suddenly, in 1784, while on an auction tour to Richmond, Va. Among Bell's better-known contemporaries were John Dunlap, William Brown and Samuel Dellap. In the latter part of the eighteenth and the early part of the nineteenth centuries there were among the auctioneers in Philadelphia, William Pritchard, on Market Street, Edward Pole, on Chestnut Street, and William Cobbett, who for two years was settled at South Front Street as editor of Peter Porcupine's Gazette, and occasionally acted as auctioneer at public sales of books. His intemperance in controversy provoked suits for slander by Dr. Rush and others, and in 1798 he abandoned "the town in which he had neither enjoyed nor given any brotherly love." F. Montmoulin, at 53 North Front Street, sold books at auction from 1798 to 1810, possibly later. M. & S. Thomas, who for a quarter of a century acted as official auctioneers for the booktrade in Philadelphia, were in the book auction business at 87 Chestnut Street as early as 1802. George W. Lord, at Sixth and Decatur Streets, was a contemporary of M. & S. Thomas, who were succeeded by Thomas & Sons. George W. Lord afterward removed to New York, and settled at 356 Broadway, where he was succeeded by Jordan & Norton, the junior partner being Charles B. Norton, who afterwards published the American Publishers' Circular, the predecessor of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY. Then followed Thomas Birch & Sons, and, more recently, Davis & Harvey, who are connected with the older generation of auctioneers through their connection with Stan V. Henkels, for years connected with the Thomases. S. G. Hubbard, at Walnut and Fifth Streets, for years had charge of the booksales in Cincinnati.

THE Supplementary Index to the "Publishers' Trade List Annual" is now being shipped. We are glad to have this ready at the beginning of the Fall season, as we know it will prove a great help to dealers. Those who have not sent in orders should hasten to do so. The edition is limited, and as orders are coming in now it bids fair to be quickly exhausted. For those who did not provide themselves with the Index to the Catalogues volume of the "Trade List" of 1902 there is now a "Combined Index" in one volume at special price, which also should be ordered promptly. The Supplementary Index indexes 128 catalogues that did not appear in last year's Trade List Annual. The books of publishers whose lists are bound up in the Catalogues volume are covered up to August 1, so that this is really the most up-to-date catalogue yet put upon the market.

METHODIST BOOK CONCERN.

A DISPATCH from San Francisco makes definite charges of mismanagement against the Western Branch of the Book Concern. A later dispatch from Los Angeles alleges further mismanagement in New York. To this the publishing agents of the Methodist Book Concern in New York have furnished the following statement, which we reprint from the Christian Advocate:

A dispatch having recently been sent out from Los Angeles, Cal., alleging a shortage of more than $634,000 in the New York Book Concern, the undersigned have this to say: This charge, being wholly without foundation, must have originated in a misunderstanding or in a purpose to do harm. There is not a shortage of one cent in the New York Book Concern.

At the end of the fiscal year of 1900 the agents of the New York Book Concern—by direction of the General Book Committee—cut down values of real estate, merchandise, machinery, accounts, etc., charging the sums thus deducted against capital stock. A large amount was thus taken off from inventory values, since which time the real estate, merchandise, electrotypes, plates, machinery, etc., have been carried in our inventory at less than their actual cash values.

Instead of keeping this matter from the public, as alleged in the dispatch above referred to, the statement of such reduction in the inventory was printed in our annual exhibit and sent out to all the papers of our church and presented to each one of the more than one hundred Annual Conferences, where it was publicly read for the information of all interested parties.

At the time these reductions were made the Book Committee in its annual report issued to the church the following statement, namely:

"The peculiar conditions of a denominational publishing house make a correct tabulation of the assets a difficult task. Electrotypes plates, for example, from which a popular book is printed, may carry for three or four years an intrinsic value quite equal to the cost of their production, and then with the end of the sale of the book may shrink in true value to almost nothing.

"Considerable reductions have been made in the assets during the last year and in the revaluation of real estate, and the Annual Conferences may be assured that we are determined to get our inventories down to a cash basis. In general business management we note with pleasure a steady improvement in various aspects over previous years.

"Our publishing agents, both in the East and in the West, are devoting their time and their ability to the trust committed to them, and their devotion to their tasks and the facility and harmony with which they carry out all the suggestions made from time to time to them by the Book Committee and by the Local Committees are causes for satisfaction and congratulation.

"No loyal Methodist can intelligently examine into the present conditions of the Methodist Book Concern without pride and satisfaction."

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF NEWS-DEALERS, BOOKSELLERS AND STATIONERS.

TWENTY-FIRST ANNUAL CONVENTION.

THE twenty-first annual convention of the National Association of Newsdealers, Booksellers and Stationers of the United States was held at 8 Union Square, New York City, on August 28 and 29. Among the officers present were Thomas F. Martin, president, New York; W. H. Skinner, first vice-president, Newark; S. Stratton, second vice-president, Paterson, N. J.; D. Brophy, treasurer, New York City; J. Y. Collins, custodian, Brooklyn. Among the subjects discussed were the extension of the United Dealers' News Company throughout the country and the putting of their organ, The Newsdealer, in the hands of a competent committee. Reports were made by Representatives Foley and Freece on the workings of the United Dealers' News Company in Philadelphia and Paterson.

It was decided that the organ of the association, The Newsdealer, should be continued. Other resolutions commended the Agnew law of the last Legislature, to prevent very young children from selling newspapers, and called upon newsdealers to refuse to sell afternoon papers on Christmas, New Year's Day, the Fourth of July and Thanksgiving. Officers were elected as follows:

President: Thomas F. Martin.
First Vice-President: W. H. Skinner, Newark.
Second Vice-President: S. Stratton, Paterson.
Secretary: M. E. Goldé, New York.
Custodian: E. Ufert, West Hoboken.

The Executive Board was made up as follows:

H. Tietjen, J. Rumler of Paterson.
A. Dickson of Brooklyn.
T. H. Kemp of Staten Island.
C. A. Schuldt of Newark.

In the evening there was a dinner at Cosmopolitan Park, One Hundred and Seventieth Street and Amsterdam Avenue.

It was decided to hold the convention next year in St. Louis.

COPYRIGHT NOTES.

PARSIFAL.

UNLESS some legal phase of the matter not yet observable can be brought out Frau Cosina Wagner's plan to stop the performance of "Parsifal" in America cannot be carried out. The ruling of Washington copyright authorities bars out Frau Wagner.

The facts as given by the Library of Congress authorities, interviewed by the New York Herald, are as follows:

Wagner owned the rights of performance in Germany, but disposed of the music publishing rights to B. Schotte, a German publisher. Thus "Parsifal" was divided into performance rights and rights of publication. Then a great mistake was made; the copyright was not taken out in America for either performance or music publication. It at once became public property here.

Another error followed. Schotte framed an agreement with each buyer of the score by which the latter, individually, agreed not to use the score for publication. But no clause was inserted forbidding its transfer to any one else for performance, so a second party possessing the score is not bound by the original agreement.

The rights to the score in English were sold, it appears upon investigation, to the late Carl Rosa, and John P. Jackson wrote the English libretto for it. Jackson, an American, endeavored to copyright in Washington, both the original work and the libretto, when the decision was given by the Washington authorities that while Jackson's own libretto would be protected, Wagner's score would not be copyrighted.

This appears to effectually dispose of Frau Wagner's alleged legal claims, for a similar copyright covers Jackson's English libretto of "Lohengrin," "Siegfried" and other Wagnerian works, yet no one pretends for a moment that stage performances of those scores cannot be given because of the libretto protection. Authorities at the Library of Congress, interviewed by the Herald, fail to see where Frau Wagner can obtain redress, even if she pushes the suit, unless the joint claims of the Wagner family and Schotte, with the reported ownership of the King of Bavaria in the original score, may have a legal phase which has not heretofore figured in the case. But even this is not seriously considered, except on the grounds of alleged sentiment, which does not count in law.

OBITUARY NOTES.

MRS. SUTHERLAND ORR, the close friend and biographer of Robert Browning, died last week after a long illness. Mrs. Orr was a daughter of Dr. Septimius Leighton and sister of Lord Leighton. She published in 1885 a "Handbook to the Works of Robert Browning," which in its comprehensiveness and detailed analysis has been the basis of most of the more recent studies of Browning's art; and her life of Browning, published in 1891, has remained the authoritative biography of the poet. She also contributed various articles on philosophical topics to the English reviews.

DR. CHRISTOPHER G. TIEDEMAN, dean of the Buffalo Law School, died on the 25th ult. at Roosevelt Hospital, New York. Dr. Tiedeman was born at Charleston, S. C., July 16, 1867, and was graduated from the University of Charleston. He was professor of law for ten years in the University of Missouri, and held the same position for six years in New York University. He wrote numerous books and articles on legal subjects, among them an "Elementary Treatise on the American Law of Real Property," and "A Treatise on the Limitations of Police Power in the United States."

CHARLES CARROLL BONNEY, eminent as a lawyer and as director of the Chicago World's Fair congresses, died at his home in Chicago, on August 23. Mr. Bonney was born in Hamilton, N. Y., September 4, 1831, where he was educated, and was for several years a teacher in Hamilton, and in Peoria, Ill. He was admitted to the Illinois bar in 1852, and for over thirty years practiced law in Chicago. His chief title to fame is based on his organization and direction of the entire series of congresses held in connection with the Chicago World's Fair of 1893, of which he was the originator and general president. The great mass of literature resulting from the congresses was collected by him and deposited in the Chicago Public Library. Mr. Bonney published several law books, and contributed many articles on religious, political and social subjects to periodicals and magazines.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

To The North American Review for September Brander Matthews contributes an article on "How Shakespeare Learned His Trade," which is full of suggestion and covers some new historical material.

THE September Atlantic brings the first instalment of the recollections of Sir Leslie Stephen under the caption "Some Early Impressions;" a paper on "Christopher North," by William Aspinwall Bradley, and an article on "The Literary Centre," by M. A. De Wolfe Howe.

The Critic for September has a paper on "Emerson," by Ambassador Choate; one on "James Martineau," by Mrs. Humphry Ward, and one on "William Ernest Henley," by Randall Blackshaw. The number also contains an illustrated article on "Phil May," by Christian Brinton.

THE September number of Lippincott's Magazine fulfils its promise to publish a series of pithy literary papers from George Moore, who wrote those famous "Confessions of a Young Man." Part I. of these "Avowals" asks and answers the question, "Why is it that England has failed to produce a first-class work of fiction?" This will doubtless provoke much argument.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

J. D. HALL & Co., Providence, R. I., have just brought out a book entitled "Humbugs and Canterbury Folks," by Mrs. Wilberforce, which attacks many of the pet foibles of average people in a most amusing way.

BENZIGER BROTHERS have just issued "The Chief Encyclicals of Leo XIII." in English, after careful revision by the Rev. John J. Wynne, S.J., who also writes the preface for this memorial volume. A complete course in philosophy, sociology and political economy, it is claimed, may be found in the encyclicals of the late Pope.

HERBERT B. TURNER & Co. have nearly ready a novel entitled "The Pensionnaires," by Albert R. Carman, of Montreal. The story is set in three pensions, located in Dresden, Lucerne and Paris, and it deals in a clever and vivacious way with the European experiences of an American girl who has gone abroad for the culture of her voice. Three more volumes have been added to this firm's edition of the "Essays and Travels" of Robert Louis

Stevenson, completing the set of seven volumes, which may be had separately if desired.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. have in preparation the following volumes in the department of poetry: the Cambridge edition of "English and Scottish Ballads," edited, with an introduction and notes, by Helen Child Sargent and George L. Kittredge, based on Professor Child's monumental work; "Complete Poetical Works of J. T. Trowbridge," now first collected and revised by the author; "A Book of Songs," poems of young life, by Josephine Preston Peabody; also, "Gawayne and the Green Knight," an old romantic fairy tale, retold in a delightful vein of irony, by Charlton M. Lewis.

GINN & Co.'s series of Jones Readers for schools "presents lessons in morals." The reader is taught kindness to animals, obedience, courage, honesty, helpfulness, reverence, courtesy, patriotism, industry, patience, perseverance. Selections are included from the world's best literature. The readers are adapted according to the grade and understanding of the scholar. They are the work of President L. H. Jones, of the Michigan State Normal College, formerly superintendent of the city schools of Indianapolis, and later of Cleveland. The illustrations, numbering several hundred, are printed from wood engravings and from originals by well-known artists.

AMONG the recent books brought out by the University of Chicago Press is a monograph on our paper money, called "A History of Greenbacks, with Special Reference to the Economic Consequences of Their Issue." It is the work of Wesley Clair Mitchell. The first part of the discussion is devoted to the events which led up to the issue of paper money in the United States, and the second part reviews in detail the effects of the desertion of a metallic for a paper standard. A detailed analysis of the Aldrich report is used in comparison with the material by J. D. Weeks in volume xx. of the census of 1880, in the chapter on wages. In a chapter headed "The Greenbacks and the Cost of the Civil War," the author considers the degree of increase in expense to the federal government brought about by the paper issues.

D. APPLETON & Co. have in press for early publication a volume containing letters in which is described "Paris Before the War." These letters, together with newspaper articles, were written by Madame Northpeat, the wife of the Minister of the Interior in France during the siege of Paris and the Commune. The epistles were written from information received by Madame Northpeat through her husband. New volumes of fiction will include "The Close of the Day," a story by Frank H. Spearman, dealing with the stage as it touches the life of an actress and that of a man of large means who loves her; "Four-in-Hand," a story of New York social life dealing with the ultra-rich set; "The Pool in the Desert," a volume of short stories by Sara Jeannette Duncan, (Mrs. Everard Cotes;) and "Butternut Jones," by Tilly Tilford, a story with a Texan hero, whose adventures are humorous and exciting.

THE AMERICAN BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY will shortly publish "According to the Pattern," a novel of social life, by Grace Livingstone Hill, who pictures an estrangement between husband and wife and the means taken to effect a reunion; and "The Winner," a strong, earnest story of schoolboy life, with direct educational teaching, by Everett T. Tomlinson. Rev. T. Harwood Pattison has written "The History of Christian Preaching," giving practically a series of monographs on the great preachers of the world, from Origen and Chrysostom to Beecher and Phillips Brooks; and other new religious publications will be "The New Evangelism," by Rev. Cortlandt Myers; "A First Book in Christian Doctrines," by Rev. Joseph E. Sagebeer; "Every Creature," an appeal for personal Christian effort, by Rev. M. T. Lamb; and a simple manual of "First Memory Lessons," by Rev. Frank Gardner, especially adapted for primary Sunday-school work.

AMERICAN TRACT SOCIETY are making preparations to bring out a long list of books, many of them by prominent authors and all of them of a high standard of merit. "Journeying in the Land Where Jesus Lived," by Dr. G. B. F. Hallock, is a distinct contribution to the literature on Palestine; and "On the Threshold of Central Africa," by François Coillard, is a record of twenty years' pioneering among the Barotai of the Upper Zambesi, a perfect mine of information and a most encouraging record of difficulties met and triumphed over in modern missionary work. One of the strong missionary books of the year will be Rev. Dr. C. C. Creagan's "Pioneer Missionaries of the Church," a model volume for mission study classes; and volumes of helpful thoughts for all Christians will be found in "Campaigning with Christ," by Dr. Theo. L. Cuyler; "The Verities of Jesus," by Rev. Dr. David J. Burrell; "The Teachings of Jesus Concerning His Own Mission," by Rev. Dr. Frank H. Foster, the first of a series to be known as The Teachings of Jesus; "After the Resurrection and Other Addresses," by Alexander MacLaren; "The Rod That Budded," (the cross,) by R. J. Miller; and "John Mark, or the Making of a Saint," by Rev. Dr. James D. Hunter, with introduction by Floyd W. Tomkins, a book specially designed for Christian Endeavor workers. The house also is getting up many juveniles which will be noticed later.

THE CENTURY COMPANY will include among their fall publications Richard Whiteing's new novel, "The Yellow Van," which has been the Century's leading serial for the year; "Pa Gladden: the Story of a Common Man," a volume of short stories, by Elizabeth Cherry Waltz, full of sentiment and kindly humor and racy of the soil; and new collections of short stories by John Luther Long, Chester Bailey Fernald and David Gray. Mr. Long calls his sheaf of tales "Sixty Jane;" "Under the Jackstaff" is the title of Mr. Fernald's volume, which is mainly nautical and adventurous in its character; and Mr. Gray's book of horse stories will be entitled "Gallops 2," his previous book, "Gallops," being henceforth "Gallops 1." An intimate biography of the great piano teacher, Leschetizky, is promised, written by his sister-in-law, the present Countess Potocka, full of glimpses and incidents of the musical celebrities of the last half century; and in the same general field will be Herman Klein's narrative of "Thirty Years of Musical Life in London," written from personal knowledge and wide acquaintanceship. There will be new holiday editions of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" and "Lovey Mary," Alice Hegan Rice's two popular books, and of John Luther Long's charming idyll, "Madame Butterfly," and an artistic volume of the most popular Christmas poems of Richard Watson Gilder, to be called "A Christmas Wreath;" while the series of papers on "My Old Maid's Corner," written for the Century by Lillie Hamilton French, will be brought out in attractive form.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have nearly ready three promising new novels: "The Shadow of Victory," a story of adventurous life on a western trading post in frontier days, by Myrtle Reed; "Free Not Bound," a romance of Revolutionary times, by Katrina Trask; and an absorbing detective story by Richard Dallas, called "A Master Hand." They also announce among their early fall publications "Protean Papers," by William Dudley Foulke; "Twelve Years in a Monastery," by Joseph McCabe; "The Record of a Family," a means of preserving interesting data in the lives of children from birth to maturity; "The Constitutional Decisions of John Marshall," edited by Joseph P. Cotton, Jr., in two volumes; "The Writings of Samuel Adams," edited by Professor Henry A. Cushing, in three volumes; the second volume of John Boyd Thacher's "Christopher Columbus;" "Parliamentary England," by Edward Jenks; "Ireland Under English Rule," by Thomas Addis Emmet; "Palaces, Prisons, and Resting Places of Mary Queen of Scots," by M. M. Shoemaker; the second volume of Hanotaux's "Contemporary France;" "Life of Voltaire," by S. G. Tallentyre; "Old Court Life in France," by Frances Elliott; "Romance of the Bourbon Châteaux," by Elizabeth W. Champney; a library edition of "French Life in Town and Country," by Hannah Lynch; "Austrian Life in Town and Country," by Francis H. E. Palmer; "Turkish Life in Town and Country," by Lucy M. J. Garnett; and the "Life and Teachings of Abbas Effendi," by Myron H. Phelps.

BUSINESS NOTES.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS.—H. D. Brown, well known to the Boston booktrade for many years, has just opened a store at 21 Boylston Street as the "Old Book Shop," where he intends to keep mostly old books, such as are out of print, and would be pleased to hear from the trade about such as they may want. Mr. Brown as a boy entered the well-known house of Gould & Lincoln, formerly of Boston, where he was for many years, and where many of the trade knew him. He has also had for the past twenty-six years a large experience in the second-hand line.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

Mr. JAMES LANE ALLEN'S new novel

The Mettle of the Pasture Cloth, $1.50

"A mighty, masterful book, not only the finest work Mr. ALLEN has done, not merely the 'best book of the year' but one of the most vital American books of the last generation. If any book written in this country since the Civil War is to endure in our literature, The Mettle of the Pasture will endure—abiding as a triumph of American art and as a tribute to American character—for it is one of the small number of 'books that have immortal souls—books that make for righteousness.'"—St. Paul Dispatch.

Mr. JACK LONDON'S tingling novel

The Call of the Wild Third Edition Illustrated. $1.50

"Its romance is fascinating. . . . It takes hold of the attention irresistibly."

—HAMILTON W. MABIE.

"One of the best books of its kind that has ever been written . . . it is distinctly original . . . and sounds a new note in literature."—Town and Country.

"The book is exceptionally good."—HARRY THURSTON PECK.

BARBARA'S People of the Whirlpool

FROM THE EXPERIENCE BOOK OF "A COMMUTER'S WIFE"

Fifth edition, illustrated, $1.50

"Truly one of the most delightful books of this or any other year."—Baltimore Sun.

"It is by a woman who evidently writes from ample knowledge, who is keen without bitterness, satirical without malice, and pre-eminently sane and clear in her judgments."—The Outlook.

Mrs. ELY'S A Woman's Hardy Garden

"Elizabeth and The Commuter's Wife are my dearest friends. The affinity of our natures drew us together, but we have opened our small circle and taken you in. Elizabeth charmed me, fascinated me, and is my bewitching friend. The Commuter's Wife is my sympathetic friend, but you—you have filled the gap, the aching practical slide, and are my helpful friend."—From a Reader to the Author of "A Woman's Hardy Garden."

A Deal In Wheat

BY THE AUTHOR OF
"THE PIT"

By Frank Norris

Stories of the Old and New West, being a collection of Mr. Norris's best shorter work, written after the tremendous crude force of his early writings had been tempered by a wider knowledge of the world and of human nature.

Illustrated, $1.50

A Child's Letters to Her Husband

By HELEN WATTERSON MOODY

Mrs. Moody's "The Unquiet Sex" was one of the brightest books in many years and her work is distinctly unusual even among the many clever women writers who have arisen lately. This delightful little volume contains the letters of a little girl to her imaginary spouse; and the missives have a remarkable amount of real feeling and delicate humor.

With photogravure frontispiece, $1.00

Little Masterpieces of Science

Edited by GEORGE ILES

Author of "Flame, Electricity and the Camera"

A sort of key to the 20th century world of scientific marvels—a companion set to the very successful literary series of which nearly a million volumes have been sold.

Ex-President Grover Cleveland writes: "It seems to me that I have never seen more valuable and improving information and study gathered together in smaller and yet not destructively cramped compass, or in a more attractive form."

In Old Alabama

By ANNE HOBSON

Miss Hobson comes of a distinguished family, being the sister of Captain Richmond Pearson Hobson and granddaughter of North Carolina's most famous chief justice. Her book promises new distinctions for the family, for it is perhaps the most accurate delineation of negro character since "Uncle Remus."

Illustrated from photographic studies from life, $1.50

Toilers of the Home

The Record of a College Woman's Experience as a Domestic Servant

By LILLIAN PETTINGILL

This book is a singularly appropriate companion to "The Woman Who Toils." That unique volume gave the life of the factory girl; this presents the experiences of a college graduate during a period of more than a year as a domestic servant.

It is a most entertaining book, but also one of significance; and it bears directly upon what is universally recognized as the most perplexing question of the American home.

Love Stories from Real Life

By MILDRED CHAMPAGNE

JUST WHAT THE TITLE SAYS. THERE ARE FOUR STORIES DEALING WITH HUMAN PASSIONS AND TEMPTATIONS TAKEN FROM INCIDENTS IN REAL LIFE THAT HAVE COME UNDER THE AUTHOR'S OBSERVATION.

"A man can afford to kick the traces of the past, if he hews a clear path for the future."

"Conscience can create for us heaven or hell."

"By suffering we often find ourselves."

MILDRED CHAMPAGNE

A great writer said the other day that there never lived a man or woman who had not at some time in his or her life been tempted to moral suicide. Of such temptations Miss Champagne has written. She brings us face to face with problems that the average man and woman encounter. She works out these problems in a manner that cannot fail to satisfy all.

Each book contains a detachable leaflet entitling the purchaser to a beautiful poster of Beatrice, the college girl heroine, 14 x 28, done in four colors.

A Suggestion

ON September 15th and 25th we shall publish three works of fiction which promise to be among the best selling books of the season. Each is by a writer whose popularity insures a large demand for his latest book, and this, together with the fact that we shall advertise them extensively in the newspapers throughout the country and in the leading magazines, is the reason why you should be well stocked with these titles:

THE ADVENTURES OF GERARD

By A. Conan Doyle

In which the king of story-tellers presents a hero who promises to rival Sherlock Holmes in popularity.

16 Full-Page Illustrations

To be published September 15th.

THE MASTER-ROGUE

By David Graham Phillips

In which the author of "Golden Fleece" recounts the dramatic career of a commercial pirate.

6 Full-Page Illustrations

To be published September 25th.

IN BABEL

By George Ade

In which the great humorist gives us some clever and illuminating stories of Chicago life in a new vein.

To be published September 15th.

Publishers' Trade List Annual

comprises the lists of upwards of three hundred publishers—over eighty lists more than the work has before contained—which greatly enhance its value to the bookseller as an inexpensive work of reference for books in print. Notwithstanding the increase in size, the price remains as heretofore, $2.

NEW SUPPLEMENTARY INDEX

We are preparing this year a supplement to the Index volume of last year, which will include (1) the titles of the books of those publishers who were not represented in last year's Catalogues volume ; (2) the titles of the new books published since the issue of last year's Trade List Annual by the publishers represented in the 1902 and 1903 volumes ; and (3) the titles which were reported too late for insertion in last year's Index volume, as well as corrections, etc.

Supplementary Index, 1 vol., about 200 pages, 8vo, cloth, $2. After Publication, $2.50.

Only enough copies of the Supplementary Index will be printed to supply the demand from those who purchased last year's INDEX, and to bind up with the small number of the remaining copies of last year's INDEX, into a comprehensive volume of about 1300 pages, which will be priced at $5 for copies paid for in advance of publication, or $6 thereafter.

The prices in every case are net, and do not include carriage. Orders, with remittance, should be placed now. Directions for enclosure delivery in New York should accompany the order, unless shipment is to be by express at the charge of the subscriber. Address

That Mainwaring Affair

By A. MAYNARD BARBOUR

Town Topics, New York, says: "The book that reminds one of Anna Katherine Green in her palmiest days. . . . Keeps the reader on the alert, defies the efforts of those who read backwards, deserves the applause of all who like mystery."

Life, New York, remarks: "Possibly in a detective story the main object is to thrill. If so, 'That Mainwaring Affair' is all right. The thrill is there, full measure, pressed down and running over."

A Sequence in Hearts

By MARY MOSS

A love story of to-day, with the characters sharply drawn and vivid, and has one of the most amusing and fascinating of plots. Of it a critic and novelist who read the advance sheets writes: "By its cleverness, its pungent wit, and its able character drawing, this story is distinguished from all other books of fiction of the twelve months past."
